

WSU Center for Arts and Humanities

September 2021 Newsletter

Message from the CAH Team

Welcome back everyone! We hope that the start of the Fall semester is treating you well. We are excited to share information about upcoming events and news with you. We will be sending out monthly newsletters keeping you apprised of opportunities from around campus and with the CAH. Read on for updates and further details about this year's theme: Create and Recreate.

Examining our roles as we research past practices, synthesize concepts, and generate new scholarship, performances, and artistic products, Create and Recreate celebrates our engagement with past, present, and future ideas in our pursuit of humanistic and artistic illumination. What is original? What is redesigned? Come (re)create with us as we ponder these questions at upcoming WSU Center for Arts and Humanities programs.

In the News!

Previous CAH Faculty Fellow Ayad Rahmani has been selected for the Frank Lloyd Wright Building Conservancy. To read more about this exciting news, check out this article from WSU Insider: <https://news.wsu.edu/2021/08/24/ayad-rahmani-named-wright-conservancy-board/>

CAH Faculty Fellow Highlight

Melissa Nicolas, Associate Professor and Director of Composition

Dr. Nicolas' project seeks to create an open-access digital archive of personal narratives about living through the COVID-19 pandemic. We will hear more about Dr. Nicolas' timely work at our upcoming CAH Faculty Fellow meeting this month, where awardees will have the opportunity to share and discuss their projects with colleagues. The meetings have been described as helpful and encouraging, as a space where scholars can engage and learn in a supportive and thought-provoking environment.
